To Whom It May Concern,

RE: Recommendation for Sagle Construction

Oilpath is pleased to provide this letter of recommendation for Sagle Construction, following the successful completion of our recent building project.

Sagle delivered a beautiful, high-quality building, meeting all expectations on time and within budget. Throughout the entire project, their professionalism, attention to detail, and commitment to excellence were clearly evident.

Their project and management team were exceptionally easy to work with, consistently demonstrating clear communication, strong coordination, and a proactive approach to problem-solving. They regularly went the extra mile to ensure that our operational needs were understood and incorporated into the final outcome.

We would like to make special mention of Jasmin and Marlon from Sagle's project management team. Their dedication, responsiveness, and hands-on involvement played a significant role in the smooth and successful delivery of the project.

Based on our experience, we confidently recommend Sagle Construction to any potential building clients seeking a reliable, collaborative, and quality-driven construction partner.

If further information is required, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Ron Agnew
